MAINE POTATO PROSPECTS DECLINED LAST MONTH

Prospects for the Maine potato crop declined nearly 4% from the expected crop a month ago, according to a joint report released by the Maine and United States Departments of Agriculture.

The Maine potato crop is now forecast at 42,640,000 bushels compared with 48,503,000 harvested last year and 43,819,000 the 10 year average production 1927-1936. September rainfall was close to normal in Aroostook, however, late blight which killed top growth by early September has been followed by a very general development of late blight rot. Tubers are generally small in size and of only fair quality this season. The total New England potato crop is now forecast at 51,318,000 bushels compared with 58,158,000 bushels harvested in 1937 and 52,106,000 bushels the 10 year average production. September weather with excessive rain in most parts of New England was very unfavorable to the potato crop. Floods inundated a considerable acreage of unharvested potatoes which will be a total loss while heavy rains have been conducive to the development of rot quite generally.

Apple production in Maine was reduced by the hurricane on Sept. 21 and the total apple crop is estimated at 912,000 bushels compared with 1,147,000 bushels harvested last year and 1,498,000 bushels the 10 years average.

GOULD DEFEATS MILO

Gould Academy used 24 players to defeat Milo High last Saturday 45-7. The winners had an easy time and the second string men saw plenty of service. The visiting team looked well polished in its shifts but did not line up to their looks after play started.

The starting backfield played good ball for the Bethel team while the line played well also; but three men, Thurston, Ted Cummings, and Smith, in the line played starring roles.

Gould Academy attempted three passes, completing two of them for 30 and 35 yard gains, both times placing the ball in scoring distance. Milo attempted six passes with two also successful, but for very little gain. In first downs the Bethel team had a 20 to 2 edge, the local team ruled off 20 first downs to 2 for Milo, which both came in the last period. Line ups:

CONNER-COTTON

There was a quiet wedding at the home of Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes, West Paris, Saturday evening when she united Parker J. Conner and Miss Ada Cotton, both of Bethel, in marriage.

The single ring service was used. Mr. Conner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Conner of Bethel. Mrs. Conner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cotton of Mechanic Falls.

PARSONS-BAILEY

A pretty wedding took place Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Bailey, Norway, when their daughter, Miss Elaine Dorothea Bailey, became the bride of Edwin M. Parsons of Bethel. Rev. Warren S. Palmer, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, performed the ceremony, using the double ring service.

The bride was gowned in sapphire blue chiffon velvet with a silver coronet caught with shoulder length veil and she wore silver sandals. She carried shaded pink pompon chrysanthemums. She was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frances Bailey, who wore rose taffeta and carried chrysanthemums in shades of bronze and yellow. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, George Parsons. Roland Bailey, nephew of the bride, acted as ring bearer. Miss Natalie Goodwin played the Wedding March from Lohengrin.

Immediately following the ceremony was an informal reception with Miss Mabel Austin and Miss Adelaide Newcomb serving. Mrs. George Parsons had charge of the guest book. The newlyweds left for a wedding trip to Northern Maine and will be at home in Bethel after Oct. 20.

Mrs. Parsons was graduated from Norway High School in 1937 and has since been employed at the J. J. Newberry store in Norway. Mr. Parsons is the son of Myron and the late Laura Sylvester Parsons. He attended Carmel High School and Gilman's Commercial School in Bangor. He is at present employed in the local First National Store.

BETHEL COUPLE GIVEN PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Bean were given a surprise party recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bean on Spring Street. After their friends had gathered in the living room which was prettily decorated in red and white, Mr. and Mrs. Bean were presented with many lovely and useful gifts.

The party then went to the dining room where refreshments of sandwiches, coffee and cake were served. A very pretty wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride and groom was presented them by Mrs. Eva Chapman. After a very pleasant time the party went across the street to the Grange Hall and enjoyed the remainder of the evening dancing.

Those present were: Mrs. Darwin Sweatt and two sons from Errol, N. H., Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Bean, Misses Ina and Pauline Bean, Mrs. George Wight, Mrs. Hoyt Gunther, Charles Bean, Mrs. Hontar Smith and daughters, Virginia and Betty, Miss Millie Williams, Clarence Enman, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Fleet and son David, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Chapman, Mary Lou Chapman, Milan Chapin, Charles Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williamson, Sherman Williamson, Helen Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wight, and the host and hostess.

The many friends of this young couple wish them joy and happiness throughout life's journey.

NORWAY PARENTS' DAY FOE

On Saturday Norway High will oppose Gould as the head liner in Gould third annual Parents' Day festivities. Last week the local eleven had little trouble defeating Milo but something else is in store for the Bethel gridsters this week when Jimmie Cole's Norway High pigskin toters appear at the Fair grounds. Last week Norway defeated Kennett High of Conway, N. H., always a good football team. They will be here eager to continue their winning ways at the expense of their natural rival, Gould Academy.

The Coaches of the Bethel school are driving their players hard this week in an attempt to get their team into the best possible shape for what appears to be one of the toughest games on the local schedule. Tucker and Clough, backfield men, are handicapped with slight injuries but both are expected to be ready to start Saturday's game.

The two previous Parents' Day affairs have been considerably dampened by drenching all-day rains. The school is hoping for a typical Indian Summer day this year in which to entertain the parents of Gould students. The game Saturday will start promptly at 2 o'clock on the Bethel Fair Grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Richardson of West Paris were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hamlin Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marsters York of Plainfield, Vt., were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wheeler, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Brown, James Brown, and Mr. and Mrs. F. I. French enjoyed a trip through Dixville Notch and Colebrook, N. H., Sunday.

Miss Margaret J. Tibbets, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Tibbets, a sophomore at Wheaton College, has been placed second on the dean's list.

Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Brinck, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dudley and daughter, Mrs. Henry Godwin and two children, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Taylor were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kilgore in Newry Sunday.

At the Maine State Fair horse show held at Lewiston last week, Mrs. Edward Hanscom's horse, Lady Hihat, was winner of the second prize in the trail ride horses and received first prize on saddle horses for sale.

Mrs. Charles Dorr, Mrs. W. F. Bartlett, Mrs. Mattie Kimball and Mrs. Flora Carson of Medford, Mass., were callers on Mrs. Kimball's and Mrs. Carson's brother, H. S. Jodrey, and other relatives in town last Thursday.

Mrs. Olive Lurvey, vice-president of the Second District Council, installed the officers of the Rumford Auxiliary unit Monday evening. Mrs. Marjorie McAllister accompanied her. Mrs. Lurvey also made an official visit to the Kingfield unit on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Mildred Brown, Edward Sablen and John McKeeney, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Sanborn, returned to their homes at Buffalo, N. Y., Monday. Miss Mary Sanborn went with them for a two weeks visit with her sister, Mrs. Taylor.

The Boy Scouts met at the Legion Rooms Monday evening. The meeting was opened in form, led by Stanley Davis. Rope was whipped, followed by a knot tying game. A hike to Grover Hill was planned for Friday night, leaving the Legion Rooms at four o'clock. Supper will be cooked on the hike.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my many friends for the beautiful flowers, cards, and words of cheer.

MISS ALICE C. WILLIS

ANNUAL BOOSTER NIGHT AT BEAR RIVER GRANGE

Bear River Grange, No. 285, held its Annual Booster Night Sept. 30, with all officers present but the Steward. As this was an open meeting the officers were marshalled in by the Assistants. The Salute and pledge to the flag were given, also prayer by the Chaplain. An Address of Welcome was given by the Master, Ernest Holt, who also read the National Master's letter. Songs were sung by the Grange and a vocal solo and encore by Arthur Dudley. Roll call of past masters found eight present, and 13 silver star members. Remarks by Past Masters. Vocal music by the Brinck family. Talk by the Master on Grange Work in the U. S.; Four Square of the Grange, read by Gwendolyn Holt, exemplified by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Brinck, Warren Stearns, Marjorie Dudley, Ida Wight, Agnes Chase, Gladys Whitney and Madeleine Dudley. Remarks by Carrie Wight, who told what the Grange meant to older members; talk on insurance by Cheslie Saunders.

The next meeting will be for practice work.

LADIES' CLUB

At the home of Mrs. E. E. Whitney on Oct. 6 the annual meeting of the Ladies' Club was held. The officers for the coming year are as follows:

President—Mrs. P. S. Chapman
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. P. S. Sayles
2d Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Howard Hunt
Secretary—Mrs. H. T. Wallace
Treasurer—Mrs. E. E. Whitney
Mrs. F. E. Hanscom will entertain the members on Thursday of this week and Miss Sarah Staples will give an informal talk on her recent trip to Norway and Sweden.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Kathryn Taylor and Miss Ruby Jodrey were hostesses at a joint birthday party for Mrs. Madeline Dudley and Miss Beatrice Brown at Mrs. Taylor's home last Thursday evening. The affair was a complete surprise for the honor guests. Mrs. Leona Flint read a poem, written especially for Mrs. Dudley and Miss Brown. They received many nice gifts. What was enjoyed. Mrs. Virginia Little won first prize and Mrs. Florence C. Blake received consolation prize. Refreshments included two birthday cakes, made by Mrs. Flint, and ice cream. Those present were: Mrs. Eva Hinkley, Mrs. Edna York, Mrs. Leona Flint, Mrs. Virginia Little, Mrs. Florence Blake, Mrs. Norma Jodrey, Mrs. Viola Lord, Mrs. Bertha Mills, Misses Eugenia Haselton, Ida Packard, Julia Brown, Lucia Van, Josephine Thurston, Faith Brown, the honor guests and the hostesses.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cummings of Bethel are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to Albert Morton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Morton of North Newry. The wedding will take place in the near future.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Joel F. Merrill are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Eva, to Philip DeRoche of Hanover.

Miss Merrill, one of a family of 13 children, was born in Mexico, January 4, 1920. For the past three years she has done housework for private families in Bethel and Norway.

Mr. DeRoche was born in Prince Edward Island and for the past seven years he has been employed by Charles and Alton Bartlett at Hanover.

Archie Young is unable to be at his work because of blood poisoning in his hand.

People and Spots in the Late News

WINDS GO BERSERK ... Boats, car and train, strewn over marshes near Stonington, Conn., proved only small part of storm toll in wake of tropical hurricane which swept over seven northeastern states costing 800 lives and nearly one billion dollars in property damage.

ELEGANTLY VICTORIAN ... Fashion designers delved into history for ideas which went into creation of this stunning evening gown of heavy celanese rayon permanent moire with extra voluminous skirt, corselet waist and neckline embroidered with shining black beads. The sleeves are puffed at shoulders.

LABOR PROTESTS ... Revision of nation's "dangerously patchwork" tax structure urged in report released by Wendell C. Heaton, (below) Florida Federation of Labor president, after study by special committee. Report condemns punitive and discriminatory taxes levied on producers and distributors as increasing labor's living costs and reducing real wages.

LITTLE BOY BLUE ... Blissfully unaware of dictators and strife this tiny sleeping Czech boy (below) brought his doll from his home in Sudetenland, and took it to bed with him at Masaryk Stadium, in Prague, where thousands of refugees were housed as war clouds grew darker over little European republic.

FOR SAFETY'S SAKE ... Increased visibility for drivers of 1939 automobiles through greater height and width of windshields and windows, over that provided in 1938 models, is pointed out by P. J. Mauck, chief engineer, Fisher Body division, General Motors corporation. Increased glass area, in some instances, runs as high as 30 per cent.

QUEENS-AND ACES ... To America's West went national championships in women's golf and tennis as Patty Berg, flaming-thatched Minneapolis girl captured links' title at Chicago and blonde Alice Marble, of Los Angeles (inset) regained net diadem at Forest Hills she held two years ago.

One of radio's strangest contracts went into effect with the initial broadcast of Joe E. Brown's new Saturday comedy series, over the CBS network. Gill and Demling, comics who support the screen's "Owh-h-h-h" man in the regular line-up, also are contracted to write the entire show. "We're in a swell spot," Frank Gill, senior member of the versatile team, declares. "On Mondays we'll send the script over to Gill and Demling, and they'll call up the sponsor and say it smells. On Saturdays, we'll get together after the show and blame it all on the actors—they always louse up a good script! We can't lose!"

Gill and Demling

Bands may come and bands may go, but when the history of American music is recorded for posterity it is very probable that the name of Paul Whiteman will stand at the head of those conductors of popular music who have contributed most to the modern trend. From his original title, "The King of Jazz," Whiteman has grown to the status of his present cognomen, "Dean of Modern Music," and his popularity is apparently unabated.

When Zasu Pitts, sad-voiced comedy star of the films, made her debut on Fibber McGee's program, she had but one admonishment. "Please," she asked Cecil Underwood, producer of the top-flight broadcasts, "don't ask me to flutter my hands. Dearly me, if anyone else asks me to do that I think I'll scream." Underwood assured her that she needn't worry. She couldn't flutter her hands and read her script, too.

Parkyakarkus, the Greek dialect comedian, is writing his own dictionary, says he, in self-defense. Parky says too many people have been misunderstanding him.

Even though Benny Goodman has been playing personal appearance dates in the mid-west, his swingsters have been causing near-riots in the Boston vicinity. Seems that so many jitterbugs got to gathering at the WEEI transmitter in Medford, Mass., to hear the broadcasts that police have to be assigned every Tuesday night to keep them from trucking the station off the air.

Here's a tip for farm boys and girls. Joan Blaine, star of the daily Valiant Lady dramas on NBC, reveals that she won her early declamation honors, which led to the stage, by reciting to the cows and pigs on her father's Iowa farm. They can't talk back, either.

According to statistics, only 8 per cent of the people in the United States attend church, but Dr. Charles E. Fuller, conductor of the Old Fashioned Revival Hour on Mutual each Sunday night, estimates that 20 per cent of the population are among his listeners. He is heard over 117 stations—a modern-day version of the old-fashioned country parson.

Jerry Colonna, the mad professor whose opera singing mimicking on Bob Hope's Tuesday night NBC show is such a hit, wears a set of real handle-bar mustaches that he has had for thirteen years. They are preserved in wax—and most opera singers think Jerry should be, too.

FACTS & OPINIONS

World War German song and slogan was "Deutschland Uber Alles." Today, in the opinion of many foreign correspondents, the Third Reich could be more or less justifiably placarded with signs
proudly reading "Hitler uber Europa." Six years ago Hitler was generally regarded as a relatively harmless sword wielder who had small chance of getting anywhere
with the astounding program laid down in Mein Kampf—the book he wrote in prison. Today a remarkable number of the objectives detailed in Mein Kampf have been achieved.

Furthermore, Hitler's bloodless attainment of Sudeten Czechoslovakia is certainly one of the greatest triumphs of what might be termed militant diplomacy. In the history of the modern world. No military authority thinks that Germany could have won had England
and France held to their treaties and gone to war. But Hitler, interpreters close to the situation say,
determined upon a great gamble.
He knew that France and England dreaded war, and were horrified at the prospect of what a great attack would do to their cities. He knew that a large segment of their populations agreed with the Daladier-Chamberlain policy of peace-at-any-price, and that those who wanted to stake a stronger line,
such as Eden, were apparently in the minority. And so he came logically to the conclusion that if he stuck to his demands without compromise, the French and British would talk a great deal, would make threats—but also, when the deadline neared, would capitulate.
The great gamble won. The Fuehrer had guessed right.—Industrial

It's an old lesson that most of us need to learn. We must learn to appreciate change, instead of waiting our lives seeking final security.

So long as we are alive we are to be the victims of change, and our bodies will continue to be victims after we are dead. Our attitude should be that of a child who goes about wondering what will happen next.

There is no such thing as an unchanging religion, unchanging economic system, or unchanging government. There is no such thing as stability. Everything is changing its position, moment by moment.

THE LOW DOWN — from — HICKORY GROVE

You will need to get up early, if you plan on getting ahead of those goober-grabbers and sand-hillers down yonder around Atlanta, and in Carolina, etc. But if you have been lucky enough to know some of these people, I do not need to tell you all, anything more about them.

But for folks
who have not been south, and kinda have an idea that they are maybe a little
slow down there,
they are barking
up the wrong
tree.

And what I got
in mind now, is how they been taking the bit in their teeth, and figuring out for their ownself, what they want or don't want—and then they vote.

And if you have been sorta scared
the country is going to pot, you can take one squint southward—
and relax.

And if Wash. has been hounding your town to do this or that, like building more swimming pools or power houses, or something which you do not need any more than a cat needs a coupla tails, you do not have to shiver and shake and be scared stiff, any more.

The Popham Colonists
On October 17, 1908, the Popham
colonists abandoned a settlement
they had made on the Sagadahok
river, in what is now Maine, during August, 1607, and sailed away
upon the first supply ship sent them from England. Despite the early enthusiasm of their leader, George Popham, the settlers—cut off for more than a year from communication with friends and loved ones—
were doubtless disheartened not less by homesickness due to their utter isolation than by danger, by privation and by Popham's death, and gladly accepted the first opportunity to withdraw from the enterprise. Of them a contemporary historian
writes: "Discontented persons, suffering whilless they act, can seldom have good success, and never satisfaction."

Colorado a Forest State
Colorado is outstandingly a forest state. It is dominated by high mountains and these are covered with their various timber belts,
starting in desert cactus on its western plains, ranging upward progressively through oak, aspen, pine,
Douglas fir and, topping them all,
Engelmann spruce battling the elements at timberline. Rampart range faces the Great Plains, looking out toward St. Louis. It is backed by the lofty peaks of the Continental Divide, while in its very heart Colorado finds its most primitive area in the Gore range in the Arapaho and Holy Cross National forests, forbidden even to pack

HOW

LAUGHTER FRESHENS BLOOD AND AIDS HEART ACTION.— Mirth is to the human body as sunshine is to vegetation, Dr. S.
A. Shoemaker states in an article entitled "Laughter" in Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

If we would have life abundant and flowing over, we need a copious supply of oxygen, the author declares, and this can be secured most easily through laughter. At the same time, this deeper oxygenization of the blood is secured without the irksomeness of conscious effort that accompanies exercise taken up for its own sake.

Thus through laughter one can vitalize one's blood while reclining on an overstuffed couch when not able to engage in active sports in the gymnasium.

Laughter is a source of therapy
for the neurotic, irregular heart.
Patients with this affliction are afraid to laugh lest their heart
will stop altogether, whereas experiments have proved that a hearty laugh repeated at proper intervals has relieved this trouble. The heart is deeply under the influence of the emotions, and the free outburst of laughter combined with its mechanical action produces a salutary effect on that organ.

Laughter is a good exercise for the digestive organs. They are definitely moved to increased activity by the shaking and massage they get from the abdominal muscles during laughter.

Diviners Credited With Finding Water With Twigs

Many a farm has been saved from ruin by the aid of a man holding in his hands a bent hazel twig or even a thin bar of metal, asserts
a writer in Pearson's London Weekly.

Water - courses are continually changing. A farm that was well supplied with water a few years ago may today be facing perpetual drouth. It is then that the diviner is called in. He walks slowly over the ground, the stick held bent into a bow in his hands.

Suddenly the rod twitches like a live thing, almost jumping from the hand of its holder.

"There's your water," says the diviner. He also tells you how far down you will have to dig. Boring machinery is obtained, and sure enough, at the depth forecast by the diviner, the precious liquid is struck.

Scientists are baffled by the diviners. Science can find no adequate explanation of their powers,
powers which no instrument can imitate. Various theories have been put forward from time to time, but none of them satisfactory.

Magic, telepathy, some sixth sense . . . what is the answer to the riddle?

Shelter Young on Backs
Several swimming birds, like some swans and the grebes, not only carry their young on their

The SNAPSHOT GUILD LEARN YOUR LIGHTING

Careful lighting, low and to one side, gives this "character portrait" its unusual firelight effect.

HAVE you ever tried shooting away a whole roll of film on one subject, not changing its position in the least but merely altering the way
the light strikes it?

It may seem foolish and extravagant but it can be one of the most important photographic lessons you ever took.

Try it on this theory: that the objects in a picture have no real interest in themselves but that all the interest is in the way they are lighted—how the light strikes, how shadows are cast. Or, in the words of a great French photographer, that the subject is nothing, the lighting is everything.

Take a photofood lamp in a reflector and arrange a number of small objects—say some fruit spilling from a bowl—on a white table-
top. Have enough general room light to give detail in the shadows.

Now set up your camera firmly with the light right beside it, for your first picture. Take another with the light far to the left and high up.
Take one with the light directly over the subject. Take one with it behind the subject, shading the bulb so that no direct light shines into the camera lens.

Try as many positions as the length of the film roll allows. When the pictures are developed and printed, the differences will astound you.
Study them and you will learn what can be done with light when it is properly used.

If you don't like still life, try a series of portraits, using the same person and the same pose but different angles of lighting. From picture to picture, facial expression will vary astonishingly—dead with flat front light, sinister with the light
low and directly in front, startled
or even terrified with the light low and to one side, and so on.

The same is true of landscapes.
With each hour of the day they change, the deep morning shadows dwindling into noon and growing again into the grandeur of evening.

Light is the photographer's working material, the plastic clay from which he models his pictures. Study it. Learn what lighting can do and apply your knowledge and you will produce pictures of which you will be proud.

The Story of
EDWARD G. ROBINSON
"I AM THE LAW"
with BARBARA O'NEIL JOHN BEAL
WENDY BARRIE OTTO KRUGER
Directed by ALEXANDER HALL
SERIALIZATION BY FRANK ROEDER

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
At the suggestion of Eugene Ferguson, a prominent member of the Governor's Civic Committee, Last Professor John Lindsay gives up his contemplated trip abroad with his wife Jerry and decides to devote his Sabbath leave from the university to stamping out the wave of racketeering that is sweeping the city. Ferguson, who is actually head of the racketeers, considers John the most harmless special prosecutor possible. Paul Ferguson, John's favorite law graduate, is unaware of his father's crookedness, and when John discovers the elder Ferguson's guilt in the books of the Acme Insurance Company, he hides the fact from Paul. No racket victim will testify for fear of his life and the lives of his family until Jerry persuades Mrs. Butler, wife of one of the silent witnesses, that her husband must talk. Butler, en route to John's office, is shot dead. John, realizing that his office is staffed with stool pigeons, fires everyone but Paul. The City Council, impatient at the lack of indictments, asks for John's resignation, but John prepares to carry on as a private citizen. The district attorney enthusiastically offers police, and John recruits a law staff from his former honor students. When the widowed Mrs. Butler is followed to John's office — now in his home — John lectures on "hoodlum psychology" by beating up three thugs who trailed her. The attempt of Eddie Girard, Ferguson's gunman, to murder John, is accidentally thwarted and Girard is arrested. John knows his office wife is tapped, hence when Girard is "sprung" from jail the prosecutor mentions over the phone that Girard is going to squeal. The gunman is immediately killed by his own gang. Racketeering reaches horrifying proportions, and John decides on a rash move. He starts the greatest round-up in the city's history and dumps every known criminal in town into his own home for questioning. Ferguson's gang starts feeling the heat. Kitchell, a henchman, throws up Paul's legal affiliation to Ferguson, and Ferguson socks him. Kitchell phones Paul in the presence of Frankie Ballou, Ferguson's girl friend. When Paul arrives, Kitchell is dead. Paul answers the phone and hears his father's voice.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
Chapter Five

When Paul Ferguson heard his father's voice come over the telephone in Moss Kitchell's apartment, the whole truth burst on him. Eugene Ferguson was the man higher up — the power behind the racket! That's why John Lindsay had refused to allow Paul to inspect the Acme books — Paul would have discovered his father's guilt in those records!

The young man rushed to John with the news of Kitchell's violent death — and also announced that he was going to give the story of his father's crookedness to the

John Meets With Success
One witness spoke up, "I'm ready, Mr. Lindsay."
Immediately the others set up a chorus of agreement, and John gleefully led the men into the next room. One by one the racketeers were picked out and labelled by the excited witnesses.

Paul dragged a cowering prisoner over to John. "This man says there's a plot to kill you before the night's over!"

"The man wouldn't talk until left alone with John."

"Then he whined, 'It's true. I didn't want no part of it. Ferguson made me.'"

"No part of what?" John asked impatiently.

"Your car's rigged up with a newspapers John vigorously told Paul to mind his own business and to lend a hand in cracking down on the racketeers, which the drop got was unleashing him as many as at a canny. Paul, audacious, agreed.

John then devoted himself to the witnesses who had previously refused to testify against the racketeers.

"Gentlemen, I'm glad to see you again," the prosecutor told the racket victims quietly. "Some time ago I asked for your cooperation and didn't get it. You refused to identify the men who were robbing you. One among you came to the front. That man is dead. If you keep silent now, he died in vain. I swore over Butler's dead body that I'd finish this job. With your help I can keep that promise. We know who the heat man is and how to get him." He pointed into the adjoining room. "But in there are the heels who took orders from him. One of 'em will try to get off of 'em. The last time you came to see me, you all had jobs! I'm giving you another chance — a chance to face a duty and carry through! We've got 'em — all of 'em. But it's up to you to identify 'em. Are you ready to do it?"

"bumb," said the prisoner. "It's set to go off the minute you step on the starter."

John regarded his ignition key thoughtfully, then shoved the racketeer back into the living room.

In a little while, Frankie Ballou entered under police escort, and shortly afterwards Eugene Ferguson was brought in John soberly introduced them to each other, and added that Frankie was the murderer of Moss Kitchell.

"Kitchell committed suicide," Frankie corrected him.

John reprovingly showed her the fingerprints taken from the death gun — identical with those that Frankie had brazenly presented to John at their first meeting. She nervously tore up the sheet of paper that bore the prints, and then John courteously prepared to show movies to Frankie and Ferguson.

The film, taken by the camera that Tom Ross had planted in the apartment next to Kitchell's, clearly depicted the quarrel between Kitchell and Ferguson, the phone call Kitchell made to Paul Ferguson — and Kitchell's being shot dead by Frankie Ballou.

Name Matthew of Hebrew Origin; "Gift of God"

The name Matthew is of Hebrew origin and means "gift of God." Matthew, the tax-gatherer, was one of the apostles. Modern opinion holds that he did not write the "gospel according to Matthew," but that its author referred to a collection of Jesus' sayings Matthew had written, writes Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sir Matthew Hale in 1671 was chief justice of the king's bench, highest judicial office in England. He was held almost infallible on legal questions and his "Analysis of the Law" gave Blackstone an outline for his "Commentaries."

Matthew Thornton (1714-1803) signer of the Declaration of Independence, was a judge of the New Hampshire Supreme court. Matthew Arnold (d. 1888) English poet and critic, professor of poetry at Oxford, helped introduce a new era in criticism and in religion.

Other Matthews of the past were: Flinders (d. 1814) one of the greatest of hydrographers, whose survey of the Australian coast is the basis for modern charts and whose name was given to an island, town and mountain range in Australia; Perry, naval officer, famous for his treaty with Japan in 1852 safeguarding American commerce in Japanese waters;

Baldwin, co-founder of the Baldwin Locomotive works; Brady, first war photographer in America, who followed the armies during the Civil war with the permission of President Lincoln and made pictures of innumerable historic value, and Vassar (d. 1893), who used the fortune he accumulated as a brewer to found Vassar college.

Early Reference to Compass

The magnetic compass, friend of navigators when Columbus discovered America, was known at least as long ago as the Twelfth or Thirteenth century, says Nikola Tesla, noted physicist. He has a definite allusion to it in a poem by Guyot de Provins, a medieval French writer. Tesla disagrees with the conclusion of the Berlin geographer, Heinrich Winter, that the compass was first used by Norse sea-wanderers. He considers it more probable that the instrument was invented by either Chinese or Arabs.

Great Herbal Emetic

The great herbal emetic comes from ipecac, a tropical plant. The great herbal pain-killer is morphine, a derivative of the opium poppy; this is not grown in the United States. The herbal fever-fighter is quinine, from the cinchona tree which grows in Brazil and Asia. Of medically valuable plants, the United States has extremely few. Perhaps the two best known are cascara sagrada bark from the Pacific coast and the leaves and bark of the common mayapple plant, which are used in the preparation of laxatives.

The Story of
EDWARD G. ROBINSON
"I AM THE LAW"
 with BARBARA O'NEIL JOHN BEAL
 WENDY BARRIE OTTO KRUGER
 Directed by ALEXANDER HALL
 SERIALIZATION BY FRANK ROEDER

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

At the suggestion of Eugene Ferguson, a prominent member of the Governor's Civic Committee, Law Professor John Lindsay gives up his contemplated trip abroad with his wife Jerry and decides to devote his Sabbath leave from the university to stamping out the wave of racketeering that is sweeping the city. Ferguson, who is actually head of the racketeers, considers John the most harmless special prosecutor possible. Paul Ferguson, John's favorite law graduate, is unaware of his father's crookedness, and when John discovers the elder Ferguson's guilt in the books of the Acme Insurance Company, he hides the fact from Paul. No racket victim will testify for fear of his life and the lives of his family until Jerry persuades Mrs. Butler, wife of one of the silent witnesses, that her husband must talk. Butler, en route to John's office, is shot dead. John, realizing that his office is stuffed with stool pigeons, fires everyone but Paul. The City Council, impatient at the lack of indictments, asks for John's resignation, but John prepares to carry on as a private citizen. The district attorney enthusiastically offers police, and John recruits a law staff from his former honor students. When the widowed Mrs. Butler is followed to John's office — now in his home — John lectures on "hoodlum psychology" by beating up three thugs who trailed her. The attempt of Eddie Girard, Ferguson's gunman, to murder John, is accidentally thwarted and Girard is arrested. John knows his office wire is tapped, hence when Girard is "sprung" from jail the prosecutor mentions over the phone that Girard is going to squeal. The gunman is immediately killed by his own gang. Racketeering reaches horrifying proportions, and John decides on a rash move. He starts the greatest round-up in the city's history and dumps every known criminal in town into his own home for questioning. Ferguson's gang starts feeling the heat. Kitchell, a henchman, throws up Paul's legal affiliation to Ferguson, and Ferguson socks him. Kitchell phones Paul in the presence of Frankie Ballou, Ferguson's girl friend. When Paul arrives, Kitchell is dead. Paul answers the phone and hears his father's voice.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Chapter Five

When Paul Ferguson heard his father's voice come over the telephone in Moos Kitchell's apartment, the whole truth burst on him. Eugene Ferguson was the man higher up — the power behind the racket! That's why John Lindsay had refused to allow Paul to inspect the Acme books — Paul would have discovered his father's guilt in those records!

The young man rushed to John with the news of Kitchell's violent death — and also announced that he was going to give the story of his father's crookedness to the

John Meets With Success
 One witness spoke up, "I'm ready, Mr. Lindsay."

Immediately the others set up a chorus of agreement, and John gleefully led the men into the next room. One by one the racketeers were picked out and labelled by the excited witnesses.

Paul dragged a cowering prisoner over to John. "This man says there's a plot to kill you before the night's over!"

Then he whined, "It's true. I didn't want no part of it. Ferguson made me."

"No part of what?" John asked impatiently.

newspapers. John vigorously told Paul to mind his own business and to send a hand in cross-examining the prisoner, which the drugged was unwilling to do. Many a man at a canny. Paul, mistaking, agreed.

John then devoted himself to the witnesses who had previously refused to testify against the racketeers.

"Gentlemen, I'm glad to see you again," the prosecutor told the racket victims quietly. "Some time ago I asked for your cooperation and didn't get it. You refused to identify the men who were robbing you. One among you came to the front. That man is dead. If you keep silent now, he died in vain. I swore over Butler's dead body that I'd finish this job. With your help I can keep that promise. We know who the head man is and how to get him." He pointed into the adjoining room. "But in there are the heels who took orders from him. One of 'em will try to stop into his shoes. We've got to get all of 'em. The last time you came to see me, you all had jobs. I'm giving you another chance — a chance to face a duty and carry through! We've got 'em — all of 'em. But it's up to you to identify 'em. Are you ready to do it?"

bomb," said the prisoner. "It's set to go off the minute you step on the starter."

John regarded his ignition key thoughtfully, then shoved the racketeer back into the living room.

In a little while, Frankie Ballou entered under police escort, and shortly afterwards Eugene Ferguson was brought in. John soberly introduced them to each other, and added that Frankie was the murderer of Moos Kitchell.

John reprovingly showed her the fingerprints taken from the death gun — identical with those that Frankie had brazenly presented to John at their first meeting. She nervously tore up the sheet of paper that bore the prints, and then John courteously prepared to show movies to Frankie and Ferguson.

The film, taken by the camera that Tom Ross had planted in the apartment next to Kitchell's, clearly depicted the quarrel between Kitchell and Ferguson, the phone call Kitchell made to Paul Ferguson — and Kitchell's being shot dead by Frankie Ballou.

Name Matthew of Hebrew Origin; "Gift of God"

The name Matthew is of Hebrew origin and means "gift of God." Matthew, the tax-gatherer, was one of the apostles. Modern opinion holds that he did not write the "gospel according to Matthew," but that its author referred to a collection of Jesus' sayings Matthew had written, writes Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sir Matthew Hale in 1671 was chief justice of the king's bench, highest judicial office in England. He was held almost infallible on legal questions and his "Analysis of the Law" gave Blackstone an outline for his "Commentaries."

Matthew Thornton (1714-1803) signer of the Declaration of Independence, was a judge of the New Hampshire Supreme court, Matthew Arnold (d. 1888) English poet and critic, professor of poetry at Oxford, helped introduce a new era in criticism and in religion.

Other Matthews of the past were: Flinders (d. 1814) one of the greatest of hydrographers, whose survey of the Australian coast is the basis for modern charts and whose name was given to an island, town and mountain range in Australia; Perry, naval officer, famous for his treaty with Japan in 1852 safeguarding American commerce in Japanese waters;

Baldwin, co-founder of the Baldwin Locomotive works; Brady, first war photographer in America, who followed the armies during the Civil

War with the permission of President Lincoln and made pictures of innumerable historic value, and Vassar (d. 1888), who used the fortune he accumulated as a brewer to found Vassar college.

Early Reference to Compass

The magnetic compass, friend of navigators when Columbus discovered America, was known at least as long ago as the Twelfth or Thirteenth century, says Nikola Tesla, noted physicist. He has a definite allusion to it in a poem by Guyot de Provins, a medieval French writer. Tesla disagrees with the conclusion of the Berlin geographer, Heinrich Winter, that the compass was first used by Norse sea-wanderers. He considers it more probable that the instrument was invented by either Chinese or Arabs.

Great Herbal Emetic

The great herbal emetic comes from ipecac, a tropical plant. The great herbal pain-killer is morphine, a derivative of the opium poppy; this is not grown in the United States. The herbal fever-fighter is quinine, from the cinchona tree which grows in Brazil and Asia. Of medically valuable plants, the United States has extremely few. Perhaps the two best known are cascara sagrada bark from the Pacific coast and the leaves and bark of the common mayapple plant, which are used in the preparation of laxatives.

Whistling, "Devil's Music"
In numerous parts of the world, whistling is viewed with much superstition. Moslems call it "devil's music" and Icelanders believe it violates a divine law, says Collier's Weekly. Whistling in mines and theatrical dressing rooms is said to court disaster. Many languages have proverbs on its consequences, such as the French maxim: "A hen that crows and a girl who whistles bring the house bad luck."

Why Panes Crack
Lack of putty on the frames of windows may cause cracked glass. Moisture absorbed by the frames during heavy rainfalls causes swelling of the wood. This in turn presses on the glass and cracks it.

Why Army Omits Letter "J"
The army omits the letter J in designating companies to avoid confusion with the letter I.

THE PARISH LETTER OXFORD COUNTY UNITED PARISH

The Parish People are very happy today to know that a minister is once again in the North Waterford Parsonage, which has been vacant since the Walter Swanks left in November last year. Mr. and Mrs. Hodges are already there, and only need the furniture that will be shipped shortly to make that Parsonage once again a real unit in the United Parish "set-up." A welcome to them! And may they long enjoy their new home in North Waterford; and the United Parish as a whole.

Last Sunday there was no service at Center Lovell, but we are expecting that all of the Churches will be open next Sunday. Now that the fall work is really beginning we hope that the people may give their loyal support to these services of worship.

Next Sunday evening the Young People will meet again at North Waterford. We have been having some very good meetings, Sunday evening, and we hope that an increasing number of the Parish Young People will be able to come. Just remember that this week Friday evening there is a big social at Albany.

Monday evening there will be a meeting of the Waterford Federated Parish.

Want some good suppers? You will find them, Thursday at East Stoneham, and Friday at Center Lovell.

Also on Thursday will be held the fall meeting of the Union Association at Hiram. We feel that this meeting promises much in instruction and inspiration and interest. Mrs. McClure, whom several of us remember when she spoke in our Parish several years ago, is expected to be at Hiram, together with Mr. McClure.

The Young People are invited to Bridgton Sunday evening, Oct. 23, and Mrs. McClure will be there again to speak to them.

On Saturday, the 22nd, the Prunepool Parish, of which Mr. Swank is the Director, will be celebrating its 10th birthday, and our Parish are asked to join with them in this celebration. The meeting will be held at East Raymond, and there dinner will be served at 12:30.

Why It Is Equally State
Wyoming is nicknamed the Equality state because it was the first state in the Union to grant equal suffrage to women. Wyoming was created a territory in 1890, and the first territorial legislature which met in Cheyenne in December, 1890, granted women the right to vote in all elections. In 1890 when the state constitution was drawn up it contained an equal suffrage clause. Wyoming entered the Union on July 10, 1900, as the forty-fourth state.

Why It Is "White Plague"
Tuberculosis has been called the white plague because of the pallor associated with the disease in advanced stages. This, in connection with the characteristic color spots on the cheeks, indicates the disease's presence.

Why Stars Are "Fixed"
The stars are said to be "fixed" because they are so far away that neither the motions of the earth and sun, nor those of the stars themselves, have ordinarily appreciable effects upon their apparent positions.

Why It Is "Planked" Steak
A planked steak is cooked on a specially made "plank" about the size of a platter which contains grooves to catch the gravy. The charred wood is supposed to give the steak an especially fine flavor.

GOULD ACADEMY . . .

On Saturday, Oct. 13, Gould Academy will hold its Third Annual Parents' Day. It is hoped that as many parents of both the day and boarding pupils will attend as are able. Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock the annual foot game with Norway High School will take place, following which a tea will be held in the Students' Home for all parents of Gould Academy pupils, and at the same time the Gouldonians will play for and sponsor a Tea Dance in the William Bingham Gymnasium.

At the Girl Reserve Convention held at Bar Harbor last week, Miss Kathryn Davis was elected State Secretary of all Girl Reserves.

Under the direction of Miss Frances Feagin, the following Columbus Day program was given in the Assembly Hall on Wednesday morning: "A Little Boy of Genoa" by Frances G. Welkes—Part I, Madeleine Hall; Part II, David Kirk; Part III, Myrtle Lapham. "A Dream that Came True" by Frances G. Welkes—Part I, Lloyd Kenney; Part II, Rita Salls; Part III, Sherman Williamson; Part IV, Bernard Bartlett. "Columbus" by Joaquin Miller, Anne Logofet; "The Return of the Mad Sailor" by Sarah A. Haste, Herbert Foote; "The Simplest Thing in the World," Beatrice Canwell. Anna Ring announced the readings and speakers.

World's Smallest Republic
San Marino, high in the Italian Apennines, area 22 square miles, population 13,000, is the world's smallest republic and one of the most ancient. The republic, which consists of a craggy mountain about 2,200 feet high, on which is the town, and some circumjacent territory, with four or five villages, is entirely surrounded by Italian provinces, but has maintained its independence since the Fourth century, and coins its own money, as well as maintaining diplomatic representatives in various foreign countries. The legislature of the republic consists of a senate of 60 members elected for life. Administrative functions are in the hands of two regents, or presidents, who are chosen every six months.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY
Services Sunday morning at 10.45. "Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon that will be read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 16.

The Golden Text is: "God hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ, who died for us, that, whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him" (I Thessalonians 5: 9, 10).

The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth! Thy watchmen shall lift up the voice; with the voice together shall they sing: for they shall see eye to eye, when the Lord shall bring again Zion" (Isaiah 52: 7, 8).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes selections from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

Wednesday testimonial meeting at 7:30 p. m.
